Reem began her career working with plaintiffs on No-Fault matters. She quickly transitioned to defense No-Fault work with experience in first- and third-party claims, primarily in SIU. She handles a variety of automobile accident defense matters, including PIP, No-Fault, and bodily injury.

Reem has experience handling files from their inception and works directly with her clients providing thorough investigations and consistent communication. She also has worked in the arson division at the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, as well as drafted, and argued, first-party dispositive motions, obtaining several dismissals.

Attending the University of Thomas M. Cooley Law School, she was the vice president of Ethics Committee.
