Andrew Ghannam is an Associate Attorney based in Farmington Hills, Michigan, with a focus on insurance defense and corporate law. He brings over five years of hands-on experience supporting litigation and transactional matters, guiding clients through complex legal issues with precision and diligence.

Andrew has contributed to all stages of legal proceedings—from drafting trial briefs and complaints to conducting discovery, legal research, and preparing cases for trial. He has worked on a range of matters including no-fault PIP, bodily injury claims, UM/UIM coverage issues, and commercial real estate deals. His diverse background enables him to deliver well-rounded legal strategies that reflect both litigation and transactional considerations.

Prior to transitioning into an associate attorney role, Andrew was a paralegal at Kopka Pinkus Dolin, where he gained extensive experience in client communication, document preparation, and litigation support. He earned his J.D. from the University of Detroit Mercy School of Law, where he received the Dean's Scholarship and was a member of the Honor Society. He has demonstrated a commitment to public service and leadership throughout his academic and professional journey.
