Xavier Burns is an attorney in the firm's Farmington Hills, Michigan office, where he focuses his practice on civil defense litigation. He has extensive experience handling first- and third-party automobile claims, including PIP and MAIPF (Michigan Automobile Insurance Placement Facility) matters, as well as coverage disputes, products liability, medical malpractice, civil rights matters, personal injury, and wrongful death claims.

Xavier works closely with clients to evaluate cases from both a liability and exposure standpoint, providing strategic guidance tailored to each matter. He manages cases through every state of litigation, from inception through final disposition, ensuring a consistent and thorough defense approach.

Prior to joining the firm, he practiced throughout Michigan, representing clients in a broad range of civil defense matters. His experience also includes handling cases involving police misconduct, family law, property disputes, and workers' compensation, giving him a well-rounded perspective when advising clients and navigating complex legal issues.
