Practice Areas

- Workers' Compensation Defense

Lee Alhambra is based out of Kopka Pinkus Dolin's Chicago office and handles a variety of workers' compensation matters. With more than 16 years of dedicated experience litigating workers' compensation cases, Lee has built a strong reputation of being a thorough and aggressive advocate. Lee has successfully litigated numerous complex cases, achieving favorable outcomes for his clients through strategic negotiations, thorough investigations, and deep understanding of the intricacies of workers' compensation laws.

Prior to joining Kopka Pinkus Dolin, Lee worked at prominent suburban law firm, representing injured persons in workers' compensation and personal injury claims. His extensive experience from the petitioner's bar and understanding of the petitioner's perspective allows him to provide strategic and comprehensive legal counsel to insurance companies and employers.

In addition to providing the best legal defense for his clients, Lee is often asked to present on niche workers' compensation topics to his clients and at conferences. In his spare time, he enjoys playing golf and practicing tennis with his kids.
