- Workers' Compensation Defense

Parker Karmel is an attorney in our Chicago, Illinois office who focuses his practice on workers' compensation defense, guiding clients through claims with practical strategies. He has also worked with clients regarding employment law, giving him additional insight into workplace-related matters.

He supports his clients through all phases of litigation—from initial investigations and legal research to case development and resolution strategies. Parker is detail-oriented and is a strong advocate for employers, guiding them through a variety of legal challenges.

Prior to joining Kopka Pinkus Dolin, Parker gained valuable experience in litigation support roles, honing his skills in legal writing, discovery, reviewing medical records, and client communication. He is a graduate of Chicago-Kent College of Law, where he received a Labor and Employment Certification, was a Martin H. Malin Institute Scholarship Recipient, and a Jewish Law Students Association (JLSA) Representative.
